

JASON INDUSTRIAL WELCOMES NEW DIRECTOR OF MARKETING & BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Effective September 21st, Jason Industrial welcomed Steve Facetti as its new Director of Marketing & Business Development.

A veteran of our industry since 1991 when he served as Product Manager with Fenner Drives, Steve was responsible for overseeing the expansion of polyurethane molded timing and seamless belts. In 1996, he became Vice President and General Manager, holding P&L responsibility overseeing performance of a multi-process manufacturing division. Later as Vice President of Sales & Marketing, he would serve a critical role in doubling worldwide sales in a position that included the establishment of sales engineering offices in domestic and Asian markets.

With Habasit, Steve led the start-up's entry into the synchronous belt market in 2005. Later, he became the Head of Global Business Development and now joins us after serving as the Divisional Head of Specialty Belts and Components Business.

Steve holds a BBA from Penn State University and attended the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School of Finance, where he studied a post graduate course in Finance for Non-Financial Executives.

With a clear understanding for new business and product expansion planning, Steve will help us with the organization of our domestic and global industry marketing focus; building the framework and common platform for which the Megadyne, Jason Industrial, Belt Corporation of America and Sampla businesses can expand and grow.

Living in Buford, Georgia with his wife Sandi, Steve will be based at Belt Corporation in Cumming.

Please join me in welcoming Steve to the Jason and Megadyne Group family.
